What is Supplier Qualification?

Supply chain management isn't just about the flow of materials and goods, it also includes qualifying suppliers and contractors. Anyone who comes on site presents risk to your business.

The world's largest organizations are defining standards for their supply chain that must be met to reduce this risk. These standards often include safety, insurance, financial, and legal criteria along with corporate social responsibility and sustainability objectives. Only suppliers that meet these standards are awarded new work.
